Art Unit: 1754

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 9-34 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over EP 0303438, for the reasons given in the last Office Action. Applicant's argument, that EP 0303438 does not disclose a specific arrangement comprising a first layer which is, during normal operation, located at an upstream end of the fixed arrangement and comprises as a catalytically active metal or precursor thereof rhodium or a rhodium compound, and a second layer adjacent to the first layer with substantially no gap between the first layer and the second layer which is, during normal operation, located downstream of the first layer, the second layer comprising as a catalytically active metal or precursor thereof iridium, osmium or platinum, is not convincing. EP 0303438 discloses at col. 7, lines 37-44 that catalyst discs 54 may consist of platinum wire mesh coated with rhodium. The platinum and rhodium in such platinum wire mesh would constitute "layers" of the platinum and rhodium and a "fixed arrangement". Moreover, EP 0303438 discloses at col. 7, lines 21-36 that catalyst discs 54 may comprise thin sheets coated with mixtures of rhodium and iridium, osmium or platinum. Part of such mixture is considered to constitute a layer of rhodium, while another part is considered to constitute a layer of iridium, osmium or platinum, and would be in the form of a "fixed arrangement". In any event, it would be obvious to employ such layers of metals, since EP 0303438 discloses that these metals are catalytically active and may be in the form of thin sheets. Applicant's argument, that the present invention results in catalyst with a slower deactivation rate than a catalyst comprising a combination of catalytically active metals that are alone or combined in a single layer, is not convincing, since the deactivation rate of the catalyst recited in applicant's claims would not necessarily be any lower than the deactivation rate of the catalyst of EP 0303438.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
